Art. Unit: 1636

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-21, drawn to a flow electroporation device, classified in class 435, subclass 285.2.
- II. Claims 22-34 and 39-45, drawn to methods of transfecting a cell, including the step of subsequently transferring the cell to a patient, classified in class 435, subclass 461, or class 514, subclass 44.
- III. Claims 35-38, drawn to a method of delivering a therapeutic agent to a platelet and then into a patient, classified in class 424, subclass 93.72.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions of Groups II and I are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the apparatus can be used to electroporate non-nucleic acid compounds into cells. Also, flow electroporation devices not encompassed by the claims of Group I may be employed to transfect cells.

Inventions of Groups III and I are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the apparatus can be used to transfect other kinds of cells with nucleic acids. Also, flow electroporation devices not encompassed by the claims of Group I may be employed to electroporate compounds into platelets.

Inventions of Groups II and III are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions deliver either nucleic acids to cells or therapeutic compounds broadly to platelets in particular, and thus differ in functions and effects.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper. Loading platelets with therapeutic compounds, e.g., proteins, for delivery into a patient is based upon a different ultimate delivery mechanism than ex vivo gene or nucleic acid therapy, wherein the nucleic acid must be expressed in the cell before any therapeutic effect is available.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
